

Ideata per valorizzare le radici culturali dell'Università di Urbino (fondata nel 1506) e della città che la ospita, l'International Summer School Urbino Renaissance Lectures: The Court and the City, si prefigge di fornire ai partecipanti gli appropriati strumenti metodologici e interpretativi al fine di poter affrontare gli studi rinascimentali con una prospettiva transdisciplinare e in dimensione europea.

Created to highlight the importance of the cultural roots of the University of Urbino (founded in 1506) and the city itself, the International Summer School Urbino Renaissance Lectures: The Court and the City, aims at giving participants suitable methodological and interpretative tools in order to approach Renaissance studies through a trans-disciplinary perspective – within a European framework.

La frequenza al corso, che sarà tenuto in lingua inglese e darà diritto a sei CFU, permetterà di acquisire conoscenze e competenze spendibili a livello internazionale e in vari settori del mondo del lavoro collegati soprattutto all'insegnamento delle discipline umanistiche, alla ricerca, alla comunicazione culturale in vari campi: dall'editoria al giornalismo, dalla comunicazione attraverso i media tradizionali e i nuovi media sino alla promozione turistica del territorio.

The attendance of the course – which will be completely held in the English language, and will give six credits – will enable the participants to acquire a set of knowledge and skills usable at an international level, in various job sectors, connected in particular to academic research, the teaching of humanist subjects, as well as cultural communication in various fields (publishing, journalism, communication through traditional and modern media) and touristic promotion.
